Dedication

In appreciation of his twenty years of untiring, devoted and earnest services to Eastern the Class of 1926 dedicate this volume to
DR. WREN JONES GRINSTEAD
whom we love as a friend, venerate as a professor, scholar and gentleman.

DR. WREN JONES GRINSTEAD

Foreword

IT is a difficult task to give the wherefore of an annual. Yet still more difficult is the task of imparting to such a publication very much originality, either in appearance or content. So we feel constrained to offer this short preface as a prayer for leniency in judging the book in its short-comings and crudities. In brief, however, we attempt to present a complete record of the happenings of the college year, and to present that material in as attractive a form as possible. Primarily, this is a picture book. It is our sincerest desire that this volume shall be the medium through which your memory shall be quickened and caused to reflect upon happy associations and occasions. And when in the aftermath of life, you dream of the long ago, may it be an ever-present guide to lead you back to that sweetest of all oases in the Desert of the Years—the happy care-free college days. Thus do we present to you, the friends of Eastern, the fifth volume of our college annual—The Milestone of nineteen hundred twenty-six.

Table of Contents

Book I	Faculty and Administration
Book II	The College
Book III	The Normal
Book IV	Athletics
Book V	Organizations
Book VI	Humor and Ads

The above is an excellent likeness of the Hon. J. A. Sullivan, who has been a resident regent of the Eastern Kentucky State Normal School and Teachers College since its establishment in 1906. During all these years he has given ungrudgingly of his time and great ability. Words cannot express the great service he has been to the institution. He is greatly beloved by the faculty, the student body and all others connected with the school.

SENIORS

The Senior Love Song to Eastern

O Eastern! dear old Eastern,
The school so near our heart,
With joyous song we praise thee,
We have, in thee a part.
A little band of Seniors,
We pioneer the way
For glory that will follow
In some not distant day.

We love thy halls of knowledge
Where teachers, brave and true
Are leading us to wisdom,
Inspiring visions new.
We love the fame you're building,
We're glad our lot is here
Beneath old Eastern's colors;
To us thy name is dear.

We love thy campus, Eastern,
With all its lovely trees
Our hearts are filled with dancing
To music in their leaves.
We love its rustic by-ways,
Its velvet dells of green,
In all our great Kentucky
No lovelier spot is seen.

We love thee in September
When trooping legions come
To swell their store of learning
And Freshmen have their fun.
We love thy hearty welcome,
The glad handshakes, the while,
Which greet us from old teachers
Who meet us with a smile.

We love thee in October
When leaves are turning brown
And pumpkins growing yellow

And Hallowe'en comes round
We love the fun and cider,
The merry spooks and games;
For music and for frolic
Old Eastern has a name.

We love thee in the winter
When snowy blanket, white
Wraps all in icy splendor
And trees are ghosts at night.
'Tis then we bend to duty
Rememb'ring your old ways,
Exams of first semester
With C's and F's and A's.

We love thee in the Springtime
When a Senior dons his gown,
And all our teams victorious
Return to stir the town.
We love thee in the June time
When sheepskins are in style;
O Eastern! how we love thee,
We love thee all the while!

We love thee in the summer
When comrades from the field
Return to have vacation
By whetting up their steel.
The dear familiar faces
Take on a light sublime
They're getting back to Eastern
And friends of olden time.

When we have all departed,
And scattered far and wide,
Our dear old Alma Mater,
We'll point to thee with pride;
And when the call "Alumni,"
Peals out across the state
You'll hear our answer, "Eastern,
We're coming, set our plate!"

CLAYTON G. MAINOUS

Conkling, Ky.

B. S. in Industrial Arts

"Sarge" has been with us for so long that he is almost essential to our school. He took both his High School and college work at Eastern. "Sarge" has been a most valuable member of the athletic life of our school and his ability along this line will be greatly missed.

BESS WHITE

Richmond, Ky.

A. B. in English

Bess! Where is the person who doesn't love her! Soon after she came to us we found we had a very industrious, jolly and lovable girl in our midst. She has proved that she is an all-round student, for besides being jolly and likeable she is an active participant in all college activities, at the same time showing the "profs" the skillful, studious side of her nature.

RUTH RILEY

Covington, Ky.

A. B. in English

The name speaks for the personality. Her gentle disposition, modest demeanor and pleasing personality have won many friends for her. Ruth is a splendid student and a girl whose friendship we all desire.

JUDSON HARMON

Whitley Citv. Ky.

A. B. in Social Science

"Jud." is an all-round college man. He is very versatile in his accomplishments. During his years at Eastern he has always stood at the head of his classes, has been a leader and has won the respect of faculty and students alike. Next year "Jud" is going to Peabody to work for his M. A. degree and from there to Columbia for his Ph. D. We are sure there is great success in store for him.

The MILESTONE '26

C. E. WORD

Concord, Ky.

A. B. in Social Science

"Lengthy" has been an outstanding character at Eastern, a man of no small ability. He is certainly a substantial all-round college man. During the three years he has been with us he has played on all the football, basketball and baseball teams. We predict much success for him in whatever work he may take up.

ELIZABETH NORTH

Frankfort, Ky.

A. B. in Education

Here is one whom we all love, not only the class of '26 but the faculty and whole student body. It can truly be said, "she is an ideal college student"—enthusiastic, industrious, studious and a leader in every college activity. "North" will be greatly missed at Eastern.

LAWRENCE ELLIS

Danville, Ky.

B. S. in Mathematics

"Lary" is quiet and unassuming in manner. He liked the class of '26 so well that, although he has not been with us this year he is coming back in the summer to complete his work. We do not know his plans, but "Lary" possesses certain business qualities which will add much to his success in what ever work he may attempt.

SARA ARBUCKLE

Richmond, Ky.

A. B. in English

A product of Blue Grass and blue blood, Sara is cultured, refined, and gentle. She is possessed of a winsomeness and charm of manner that has endeared her to all. Her hobby is English, her pet aversion is Math. "Rice" is a favorite dish with her, and she is interested in Mason-ry as a profession. Here's to her future, may it be sunshine and roses.

MELBA W. CARTER

Richmond, Ky.

B. S. in Home Economics

Beautiful, is certainly an appropriate adjective to use in describing Melba. In fact, during her first year at Eastern her beauty and charming personality ensnared the heart of one of our most popular faculty members. Melba has taken some of her work at Peabody, but the class of '26 deems it an honor to number her among its members.

G. A. NIEKIRK

Springfield, Ky.

A. B. in Social Science

His policy is either to find a way or make one—a man with a purpose. He is one of frankness, dignity, economy and firm convictions. He's an interesting volume if you only know how to read him.

W. P. GULLETT

Stacy Fork, Ky.

A. B. in Education

"Gullett" has taken much of his work at Eastern. Some of us come to college to have a good time, others to be in style, but "Gullett" comes for the sole purpose of getting an education. He plans to be a H. S. principal. The best wishes of the class go with him.

KATHERINE YAGER

LaGrange, Ky.

A. B. in English.

"Kat" is one of the best known and most popular members of the class of '26. She is always full of "pep," enthusiasm and new ideas. Yet from the generous sprinkling of "A's" on her record we know she is a splendid student too. "I don't know," is an unknown expression in her vocabulary.

LILLIAN WELLS

Wilmore, Ky.

A. B. in English

Lillian has a certain poise and dignity which is very charming. It is by means of this same dignity and an unusual amount of "gray matter" she has made such an impression on her professors that good grades are conspicuous on her record. Lillian has quite marked ability in writing poetry. For example, just read our class poem.

ORVILLE PRICE

Richmond, Ky.

B. S. in Physical Science

The class of '26 takes one of Eastern's best and most popular men away from the campus and its activities. "Sleepy," only in name, because as Editor of this annual he has certainly proved he is wide-awake and full of initiative. Yet every college activity has at some time or another felt his support. "Here's to Sleepy" may the future bring him much success.

JENNINGS MILLS

Covington, Ky.

B. S. in Mathematics

Don't tell us you don't know the Mills' brothers. "Jeff" is the younger of the firm. He has taken only two years of his work here, but has been a very valuable member of our class. He interested in all College activities and is a splendid combination of a jolly good fellow and an earnest worker. We predict for him a very bright future, for a man that has ability and is popular too, will always come to the front.

MRS. VIRGIL McMULLIN

Richmond, Ky.

B. S. in Home Economics

Quiet, modest, unassuming "Tab" is the type who has no enemies, for she attends strictly to her own business. She is a rare combination of reserved dignity and humor. "Tab" has been one of the most faithful and loyal members of the class of '26.

The MILESTONE '26

EMMA YOUNG CASE

Lawrenceburg, Ky.

A. B. in English

Here is one who is laughter loving and good natured! She is a genius for making friendship and her spirit spreads sunshine wherever she goes. She loves her own way, but her way is usually right. Indeed, there are few who have done so much for Eastern.

VIRGINIA ROUNTT

Hunstonville, Ky.

B. S. in Chemistry

"Ginger blue" is one of the merriest members of our class. But in spite of her merriment she elects the stiffest courses in college. She takes, and we might add, teaches chemistry as a pastime. Virginia has the ability and determination to accomplish great things that will make her Alma Mater proud of her.

The Juniors

What think you of the faces before you? Do you not discern there the courage, the determination and the steadfastness necessary to achieve success? Yea, verily and what is more we see disclosed the love of battle, the flush of achievement and the sheer joy of living.

We are the Juniors. We are a select crowd. There were others among us. Some of these have had to drop behind; others have been forced ahead but we stand by our convictions and proclaim ourselves Juniors.

It is impossible and unnecessary to trace step by step the history of this class but may we present, as a source of inspiration for the past, present, and future achievements, our motto—“Nothing without labor.”

DIPLOMA -- -- CLASS

Diploma Class

IN September, 1924, the Class of 1928 entered the Land of Learning at Eastern Teachers College. After the first few weeks of bashfulness and uncertainty, we organized ourselves into the largest and most enthusiastic group on the campus.

Somehow, we struggled through the sarcasm of the professors, taunts and threats of the upperclassmen, the terrors of the discipline committee and gained marked improvement by each conflict, encouraged by the guidance of our capable advisor.

In all of the organizations we were uppermost in co-operation and support, giving to literary, social, and athletic activities our best service.

Again in 1925 we organized under the name of Sophomore. We lost many of our faithful members, yet others joined us. Though they could not fill the vacancies, they made new places, and we, with their help, have continued our climb with a real zeal and alertness to win.

For some this is the end of their school career, and they plan to go out in the field of education, to do their bit in the struggle for a better Kentucky. Others are looking forward to graduation as the climax of their aspirations and ambitions. Under either condition, we intend to continue climbing, keeping ever in mind our aim in life.

The Freshmen

THE Class of '30 started the year with a bang. The faculty advisor and class officers were elected with great enthusiasm. The President, Mr. Tarter, appointed a policy committee, which worked out the eight following policies: initiative, loyalty, constructiveness, promptness, co-operation and appreciation, business-like attitude and that class meetings should be educational and recreational. To carry out these policies eleven other committees were appointed.

The Scholarship Committee received the names of all students with low grades and worked with them individually to bring up their standing. As a result the Freshman Class had a smaller percentage of "F's" than any previous Freshman Class.

The Program Committee consisting of Miss Boyd, Miss Wendel and Mr. Adams, worked out many interesting programs for class meetings. These programs were successfully carried out and proved to be very constructive and enjoyable. Many of them dealt with Kentucky's contributions to history, literature and art. In addition to these class programs the Freshman Class contributed its share of the chapel programs, which were considered to be some of the best of the year.

The Orchestra Committee succeeded in getting up the only orchestra on the campus. Miss Henry and Miss Buck played the piano, Miss Bergen the drum, Miss Terril and Miss Dixon the violins, Mr. J. F. Mills the trombone and Mr. H. B. Mills the cornet. This group was organized with Miss Schneib as faculty advisor, Mr. Mills as president and Miss Terril as directress. Miss Dixon was secretary. They played only classical music, and were asked to play every Tuesday morning in chapel. Though they worked hard they had many pleasant dinner parties and surprises.

Another group was the campus committee, which encouraged a beautiful campus by many posters and short speeches in chapel.

Still others were the place, attendance, song, yell, usher and special talent committees. All twelve committees helped to make the class the best organization on the campus. They succeeded because the Freshman Class had originality and pep, which was shown by its unique class party and serving each member his share of iron in the form of raisins, at some of the class meetings. It showed its loyalty and co-operation to the school by choosing for its class banner the school colors. This banner was earned by the Freshman girls and presented to the class as a Christmas present. The class successfully carried through its business-like attitude by having a gavel, ushers and parliamentary law at all of its meetings.

Last but not least—Miss Schneib, the faculty advisor, was to the Freshman Class what the spark is to an engine. She was ever ready to give her valuable time and untiring energy to any activity that the class was interested in.

Hats off to the executive board! It worked hard and faithful for the benefit of the class. It appointed many committees and worked with them to help make the freshmen the most original and energetic organization on the campus. The two class presidents are to be congratulated for the manner in which they helped "bring home the bacon" in the way of class spirit. Mr. Tarter was ever ready to sacrifice his own pleasure for the good of the class, while Mr. Mills carried out the original policies with great enthusiasm.

Freshie (coming in late to a seventy-three class): “I’m late Professor, but I-I-I had to wash my neck and ears this morning. I swear it won’t happen again, sir.”

Mills (wanting to be up to date): “You are as sweet as the essence of sacharine.”

Miss Sale: “How dare you insult me?”

McCoy to roommate: “May I borrow your blue tie?”

Tarter: “Why the formality?”

McCoy: “I couldn’t find it.”

Beneath the moon Craft told his love
The color left her cheeks
But on the lapel of his coat
It showed for many weeks.

Mr. Cox: “Why is chemistry like love?”

Ruby Ballard: “Because the lower the gas the greater the pressure.”

“Zula, why has Ownby no hair?”

“Because he thinks so much, my dear.”

“But why have you so much?”

“Because, Oh, go on away and study.”

Normal Sophomores

The fall of 1925 brought with it a small but unusually talented and ambitious band of young men and women to the Sophomore class. Many had been in the field for the first time contributing something of their knowledge back to the childhood of the Commonwealth. Never has there been a more earnest and enthusiastic group eager to advance in knowledge and as eager to go back to the places from whence they came and give more to the schools of the community. Realizing that it was professional training which all desired, it was decided that the class meetings would be devoted entirely to professional training. This accounts for the change in the class programs. Heretofore the meeting had been somewhat of social entertainments which were on the whole interesting but not as instructive as the members of the class felt that they should be.

The most interesting thing as well as the most instructive that the students who are preparing to be teachers can hear is the experiences of those who have taught and the advice which those persons can give. All the teachers were glad to help the aspiring young students as much as possible, so much so that nothing which might concern the school in the community was left out in the discussions. This course was taken the first semester.

There has been a change in organization since the beginning of the second semester. Heretofore the class has been organized as the class of students who are working for the provisional elementary certificates of the first class or the eight unit certificate. Each class did work that would most concern the certificate that it was working for. This gave the classes a distinct division because of the difference between the certificates. It was felt at the beginning of the semester that the Legislature would make a change in the certification law, and true enough it did. This gave the Normal students something new to think about.

When the new law goes into effect there will be but one certificate issued in the Normal School, the eight-unit certificate. All the normal students have the thing which they have been working for in common. This revealed the fact that more could be accomplished by working together. The class groups are still organized and there is still the class feeling but the Friday meetings are held in the gymnasium with all the classes present. This arrangement is very satisfactory and splendid work is being done.

The Sophomores outside of doing some real work along the line of preparing to make good teachers of themselves, are outstanding in activities. The class has a good representation in football, basket ball, and baseball. Many belong to the Roark Literary Society; some belong to the Little Theatre Club; and there is a fair representation on other various important committees.

The Normal Freshmen

The normal freshmen of Eastern are modest in their demeanor, but have been doing things that count for the advancement of the school; and promise to be a live class in 1927. Our roll numbers over one hundred twenty members.

Mr. Burns has been a most loyal and helpful advisor, and we feel much of the credit for our success is due him, as well as our efficient officers, and especially our president, Mr. Denver Miniard.

The members of our class are very enthusiastic supporters of all athletics and other activities on the campus. One member of our class has won honors on the football field, also in debating.

We hope that our class will become one of the best and most useful that Eastern has ever produced.

Athletics at Eastern

The control of athletics in Eastern has been delegated by the Regents to the Athletic Committee. This committee is selected by the president and is made up of faculty members who, from previous experiences are specially fitted to supervise athletic activities. All necessary rules and regulations governing eligibility of students are made by this committee. The scheduling of interscholastic games is also under control of the committee.

Under the present plan athletics are on a very high plane and the teams representing the school in interscholastic matches are made up of the best men and women of the student body.

Eastern, since becoming a four year college, is rapidly making a place for herself in the athletic world. In match games with older institutions she has acquitted herself in a most creditable manner. Steps are being taken to secure membership in some one of the bigger associations and when this is accomplished, Eastern's standing among the colleges and universities will be beyond question.

The Athletic Committee is at present composed of the following:

A. B. Carter, Chairman
C. A. Keith
George Hembree
Smith Park
Hortense Lewis

Baseball

During the season of 1925 the Maroon baseball team was not so successful as teams of the past seasons and dropped eight of its twelve scheduled games by narrow margins in each instance indicating the determined fight which was characteristic of the nine. In the games played during the entire season the Eastern tally, or that of her opponents did not reach two digits, which is evidence of the fact that only "airtight" ball was played and that the games bore no resemblance to a track meet.

The "jinx" which pursued the Maroons throughout the season was largely due to injuries of members on the team. Harvey Hayes, star twirler, wrenched his shoulder badly when he threw his first ball in one of the games and was out for several weeks. Captain Stone fell and sustained a sprained shoulder when he made a healthy stab at a hard-hit fly. This left his berth at center field to be filled by a second string man. Other minor injuries to players greatly weakened the team during the season and impeded the functioning of the team as a unit.

As usual the college season was badly cluttered up by rain and wet weather. One game with Kentucky Wesleyan College being postponed four times before it was finally played and then on a field of mud. Few notable events occurred to break the monotony of the season. Joe Gay, stellar slugger in practice finally made connection with the horsehide in a game, knocking it almost to Roark Hall and slid safely into second base. Lemon an all-southern end in football while on the Centre College eleven, and who was also a member of the baseball team of that institution had the misfortune to break his leg when he slid into third base on the local diamond in a game which Eastern captured by a score of 2 to 0.

The locals were regarded as one of the best fielding teams in this section but were woefully weak at hitting. The team as a whole may be referred to as the "hitless wonders" and were very slow to lit the pill. This accounts for the small scores as well as the small number of Maroon victories. Only three of the nine players batted .300 and better. Mainous lead the clouters with .380; Stone came second with .348; while Dooley batted a little better than the .300 mark.

The Maroons were without a general during the middle of the season while Captain Stone was out on account of an injured shoulder. They closed the season with a 3 to 1 victory over the Pioneers of Transylvania College on the local diamond. The hitting was done principally by Mainous, Stone and Dooley while the fielding during the season in the infield was borne by Moberly at third base and by Stacy at left in the outfield. The locals scored 33 runs while their opponents piled up 43 runs in the twelve games played.

Harvey Hayes was the principal twirler for Eastern after he had recovered from his injury in the shoulder and the effect of his slants and speed is evidenced by the shut-out game of 2 to 0 over Centre College, played at Richmond when the Maroon "pitching ace" turned back the Colonels scoreless allowing them only three singles. Dooley and Stevens, other members of the Maroon pitching staff, proved their ability when called to the mound and did credit to themselves.

The main battery for Eastern was composed of Hayes and Mainous while Hampton, Gay, and Moberly held the first, second and third bags respectively. McDaniels was a whirlwind at short but slackened his pace during the last of the season. Stacy was stationed in left field, Captain Stone at center and the right field position was disputed by five fitting candidates. There was hot competition for this position between Higgins, Mayc, Hensley, Tudor and Dooley, all of whom did their share of felling. One of these men was shifted to center field while Stone was out of the game due to injuries. Other good material on the reserve list of available substitutes included Jones, Tuttle, McDougle, Combs, Crace, Martin, Vinson and Maggard.

Football

The Maroon eleven experienced its best season in 1925 playing the stiffest schedule in the history of the school and breaking even in the seven encounters, tying one, winning three and losing three. Notwithstanding the fact that the victories were comparatively small, many have expressed the opinion that the team was very successful in its first real card, scoring 142 points to its opponents 41. Then to, the rating of the schools carried in 1925 was far superior to that usually making up the Maroon card and the debut into football circles with the foremost colleges in the central part of the state is predicted to be of unestimable value to the school in many ways.

Handicapped by the fact that their hardest games were the earliest on the card, the Maroons did well and made creditable showing in each of the games. There is no doubt to those who witnessed a majority of the contests that the Maroons emerged from each game with marked improvement and that at the close of the season were in such condition as to give practically any team a good run for their money. In fact the Transylvania Pioneers famed as one of the State's strongest elevens, were amazed at the stubbornness of the Maroons during a clash in Lexington near the close of the season when the locals lost by one point after determined efforts were displayed.

Captain Becham Combs, luminary tackle, was the star of the Maroons in the line, and his savage fight and pluck even undaunted by defeat, lead the Maroons to a successful close. At the pivot position Captain-elect Alford of the 1927 eleven was equally alert and was given an honorable mention by coaches choosing the mythical all-central Kentucky college eleven.

The scorers were lead by Gentry who did most of the ball "toting" and collected 52 points during the season with seven touchdowns and ten kicks from placement following touchdowns. He was fleet of foot, having sufficient momentum to carry on and was equally skilled with his "toe." Stone, quarterback, came second with 27 points, four touchdowns and scoring three extra points. Moberly, Jones and Crutcher each scored two touchdowns, the latter adding one extra point with a drop kick. Other active scorers include Captain Combs, Hurst, Tuttle and Hacker who each scored a touchdown and the latter two with an additional point apiece for an extra point after the touchdown.

The longest run of the season in any Maroon game was made by Gentry, who raced eighty yards thru a broken field after breaking through the line of scrimmage and side-stepping, eluding, dodging, and shaking off several tacklers for a score against the Morehead Normal School eleven in a game on the local grid which was copped by the Maroons 67 to 0. Hurst made the second longest run in the same game when he intercepted a forward pass and ran seventy-five yards for the final counter of the game.

The Eastern schedule consisting of seven games was begun October 12 at Richmond with a game with the University of Kentucky freshmen which was lost. However the freshmen did not get over the effects of the game throughout the season as three of their best men were injured. The game with Union College at Richmond on Turkey Day morning which was an easy victory for the locals closed the season.

Girls' Basketball

Closing a very successful season the Eastern co-eds dropped their final game by a score of 27 to 15 to the Georgetown Tigerettes February 27, at the Scott County capitol, by virtue of which the state girls net title was annexed to the Georgetown College five. With equal records and with the advantage of playing on their home court the Tigerettes won the encounter which decided which of the two teams would concede the 1926 state honors. The local girls were a close second and made every effort to repeat last season's performance of taking the undisputed championship of the entire state.

Recognized as one of the strongest quintets in the state the Eastern girls won nine out of the thirteen games played and were thrown out of the race for the penant at the last stage only by Georgetown College who handed them defeat in both of the season's encounters. Besides losing twice to Georgetown, one game was dropped to the University of Louisville net team and the team of Kentucky Wesleyan College. Both were played on foreign courts and lost by narrow margins. The locals amassed a total of 289 points during the season while their opponents could only gather 175.

Miss Lucille Clark, luminary forward, lead the Eastern scorers with 144 points which is the largest number ever registered by any former Eastern player and is probably unexcelled in the state. Captain Leonor Butler, who battled in every game of the season at center came second with 83 points, while Scanlon, a regular forward collected 29 points. Miss Elsie Evans who hailed from Danville the second semester and who played an exceptional floor game when she substituted at forward, rung up 9 points, while Frazier and Hickman, other reserve forwards emerged from the season with eight points each.

Much credit for the team's success during the season was due to its guards who worked well and untiringly, greatly jeopardizing their opponents scoring chances. Misses Mauney and Waggoner bore the brunt of the opposing marksmen and their guarding was very commendable. The former was a member of the previous year's team which won the undisputed state title and was selected by various sport writers in Central Kentucky as all-state guard. It was Miss Waggoner's first year at Eastern but she made good use of her high school experience and developed into a first rate guard.

Countless substitutes which formed a wealth of material were held in reserve and performed creditably when called into action by Coach Hembree. These include Evans, Frazier, Knox, Lorance, Perkins, Hickman, Graham and Noland. The entire squad and Coach Hembree worked diligently to perfect a team to race for state honors, but it lagged at the crucial moment and the title was snatched from them.

Besides losing four games, two to Georgetown College and one to Kentucky Wesleyan College and one to the University of Louisville, the Eastern girls met and defeated some of the foremost teams in the state. Their victims include the Sue Bennett Memorial School, Union College, Louisville Normal School, Transylvania College, Cumberland College, Kentucky Wesleyan College and the University of Louisville.

This was the fourth consecutive year that the Eastern co-eds have been in the running for state honors, having captured the title in 1925. Prospects are that they will have another strong team in the field next year as several of the regulars have signified their intention of returning next fall.

Boys' Basketball

Pursued by a relentless "jinx" the Maroon net team of the Eastern Teachers College had a very unsuccessful season in 1926, winning one game by one point out of the twelve games played. However, they showed flashes of form and fight which really did credit to the work of Coach Hembree but none were of such length as to be of much consequence.

Playing only first class teams, they rallied several times when it seemed as if they were to win an important encounter only to be turned back by some trick of fate, and succeeded in handing Union College a 24 to 23 defeat on the local court which was the season's only victory.

The Maroon boys who scored 239 points as compared with 403 for their opponents, were lead by Captain Stone at forward who registered 106 points. Next came Jones, a forward, who collected 68 points. Hensley accounted for 35 points and Triplett, elongated center, rung up 17 points. Several second string men used in many of the games were active scorers.

The brunt of the Maroon defense was borne by Becham Combs, stellar back guard, who not only favorably compared with all other guards appearing during the season on the local court but caged three field goals during the season. Combs covered himself with glory in all of the games and held down the opponent's score forcing the marksmen to fire from behind the foul line. As is evidenced by the individual scores, Stone and Jones, were the important cogs in the local scoring machine.

During the month of December a class tournament to which varsity candidates were eligible, was held and consequently no varsity practice was held until the students returned from the Christmas holidays. With only four days' practice the Maroons met the net team from Sue Bennett Memorial in the opening game on the local court January 8, and were defeated 36 to 27. The early defeat had disastrous effects on the team and the "jinx" followed thru out the season.

The second string men who saw active service during the season include Martin, Clouse, Gentry, Howard, Douds, Word, Hurst, Tuttle and Saufley. The teams carried on the 1926 card include two games each with Georgetown College, Transylvania College, Union College, Cumberland College, Berea College, and one with Sue Bennet Memorial School, and one with the Paris Athletic Club.

No satisfactory reasons have been given why the boys' team failed in 1926, nor why it does not usually have as successful a season as the girls' team. Certainly they have a capable coach, plenty of available material and a nucleus for moulding a successful combination. While for the last four years the girls have had very successful seasons the boys have been shipwrecked by fate. Each year the Coach, Hembree, has worked hard, long and diligently both for the team and for the future, but has met only with discouragement. It is predicted that the Eastern boys will put a good team into the field next season if such indications as determination, interest, hard work, plenty of material, and an early beginning can be judged as criteria for a successful combination. Fans predict that if it is possible for Eastern to have a good boys' team, it will be accomplished in 1927.

Eastern Teachers College has the distinctive honor of being the only school in the state having an Open Forum. This is the only organization on the campus which has the unique position of having as its membership every student of the institution.

The second year of the Open Forum is marked with success. In addition to thinking out and executing constructive measures for the school, it has been responsible for the Tuesdays chapels. The Tuesdays chapels this year have not been a repetition of class meetings, literary societies, or cheap vaudeville, but they have been educational and inspirational and have been especially noted for the dignified atmosphere which has prevailed.

In addition to being responsible for Tuesdays chapels, the Open Forum committee has completed three of the plans launched by last years Open Forum committee, namely, improving the College auditorium stage, sponsoring an art exhibit, and creating interest in keeping our campus beautiful. It has also been responsible for the ushering at all public gatherings during the second semester; also for launching a "Go to College Drive." Plans have been made for increasing the student loan fund and for leaving a memorial to the college library.

The representatives of this organization are: Judson Harmon, President; Flo Evans, Vice-President; Eldred Adams, Secretary and Treasurer; Miss Schneib, Orville Price, Virginia Routt, Katherine Yager, and Mary Ewalt Clay.

The faculty and student body are most grateful to the charter members who launched the work of this committee. These members are Elizabeth North, President; Roscoe Dalton, Vice President; Mrs. C. Lusby Talbott, Secretary and Treasurer; Mary Floyd, Virginia Routt, Miss Schneib, E. C. Mullins and Clayton Mainous.

Little Theatre Club

Almost six years have elapsed since a few of the students realized that there was a great deal of histrionic ability at Eastern, and that there was great need for a cultural organization through which these various emotions might be expressed. As a result of this need the little Theatre Club was organized.

During these years the club has grown rapidly in numbers, achievements, aspirations and hopes. It has traded in almost every human emotion to a greater or less degree. It has held the mirror up to every phase of nature which could be reflected on the stage.

In endeavoring to present true pictures of life the Little Theatre Club has adhered to true art in that it has portrayed the horrible as well as the beautiful. Velasquez's pictures of dwarfs and degenerate princes are equally as artistic as Raphaels Madonnas. Shakespeare is as successful artistically in his declination of Lady Macbeth as of Desdemona.

Dramatic art possesses an added advantage and appeal over many of the other arts. We think in terms of language more or less vaguely; when we embody thought in definite language we first realize its full value ourselves, and can impart it to others. It is then we know the value of being impressed and making our impressions permanent both for ourselves and others. We know that impressions and expressions are inseparable.

In the Little Theatre there is an opportunity for each member to display any talent that he may possess, either as an actor, designer, costumer, or creator of stage and lighting effects.

During the past year the Little Theatre Club has been indeed fortunate to have numbered among its numbers such various types of histrionic ability. The "Yuletide" production—"The Xmas Spirit" was one of artistic beauty and gracefulness. Although this club was not organized for mercenary gains, yet the proceeds of this play enabled the club to have a share toward the hospital funds.

The last production of the year was the clever comedy "The Maneuvers of Jane," which was being coached by our most talented and able director—Miss Buchannan.

Throughout the year the Roark Literary Society has shown fighting spirit in all its undertakings. The loyalty, the oneness of thought, and singleness of aim that has characterized its members during the year have hereto been unrivaled and unequalled on the campus at Eastern. Many accomplishments of a constructive nature have been completed, and the various attainments of the society have made it secure in its position as the best society Eastern affords. It is with pleasure that we pass our accomplishments along to future Roarkians, and it is our desire and belief that our society will continue to go forward in the future as in the past—a successful and dominant factor at Eastern.

Horace Mann Literary Society

The students of the Eastern Teachers College met on Thursday October 19, 1922 and formed the Horace Mann Literary Society. Each year since that time the society has been functioning and has shown great improvements.

On the first evening of October the society met to reorganize for the school year beginning September, 21, 1925. It held to the same purpose that had been handed down from year to year which was to develop its members along literary, musical, and dramatic lines. President Coates gave the society the privilege of functioning with or without a faculty advisor. But the society feeling it might need some assistance from the faculty, selected Mr. M. R. Sullivan, who has proven a very efficient advisor.

The society has not spent all of its time in work but has at times turned back the wheel of time to the exuberance of youth and to forget the worries that strenuous college life brings about. Though practically a new organization as compared with some, we believe in it and will as we return, try to raise it to a plane where its service will be most valuable.

At Fetter's your job is partly ours.

Here all work is performed by skilled hands under exacting supervision with the minimum of waste effort and annoyance for the staff.

Here every element from start to finish is given the attention an enthused staff has the right to expect—which explains why each year finds an increased number of Annuals "printed by Fetter."

Place your order here next year. You will be assured an Annual that carries out the right conception of what you want and you'll get it when you want it.
